Hermit Trapper Is Found Dead In Shack; Officials Conduct An Investigation

Believe Death Resulted From Apoplexy More Than Seven Days Ago--Neighbors Make Grewsome Discovery After Breaking Down Door--Well Known Character.

The body of Miles Richeson, well known hermit trapper and fisherman of the Bowman vicinity, was found in his shack one-eighth of a mile northwest of the Bethlehem grange hall shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday evening.

Death, which probably resulted from apoplexy or heart trouble, occurred at least seven days ago according to Coroner F. M. Marshall who viewed the body.

Investigation by the coroner and Prosecutor Don C. Porter, disproved the theory of foul play which was advanced by several residents of that vicinity.

As Richeson had not been seen for more than a week Waldo Nelden and Foy Helms, who reside nearby, went to his shack to make an investigation. They found the door of the building securely locked and upon knocking heard several dogs growling inside. They went to a small shack nearby where Richeson kept his horse and some hogs, and found that the horse had eaten all the hay in the manger and the bedding on the floor.

Break Down Door.

Other neighbors were notified and Frank Helms accompanied by John and William Kimberly went to the shack and broke down the door which was bolted from the inside, finding the body on the floor. Two dogs were lying across the dead man's legs and another dog was lying in the bed. The animals were nearly starved but refused to leave their dead master for a time. It was necessary to coax them from the shack with pieces of meat.

Coroner Marshall and Prosecutor Porter were immediately summoned and investigated the case. No marks of violence were found on the man's body but $16 in bills and a certificate of deposit for $75 were found in the shack thus dispelling the theory of foul play.

Stricken at Night.

The body was lying at the foot of a bed and it is thought that the man was stricken after retiring. He had evidently gotten part way out of bed and fell forward on his right side.

Richeson had lived as a hermit in the Bowman vicinity for more than fifteen years. It is said that he was in the habit of going on "sprees" of several days duration during which he would not be seen by the neighbors. On account of this fact the neighbors did not consider it strange when they failed to see him.

Hoarded Money?

It was generally supposed that he kept a large sum of money hidden in his hut but a search failed to reveal any larger sum than the $16 in bills.

The body was taken to the Howard Price undertaking rooms in Roscoe last night and it is probable that burial will be made sometime Friday.

Richeson has four brothers: Rollo, of Coshocton; Arnold and James, of Warsaw, and Martin, of Spring Mountain.

Crowthers Funeral Will Be Held Friday Morning

Funeral services for William Crowthers, aged 67, who died suddenly at his home in New Guilford, Tuesday night at 11 o'clock, will be held Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock sun time, at the New Guilford M. E. church. Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor of the church, will have charge of the services.

Mr. Crowthers had been in failing health for some time and on this account had retired from active farm work but Tuesday had spent the entire day on his farm one and one half miles west of New Guilford, directing some special work. He had retired early in the evening and fallen asleep almost immediately. About 10:30 Mrs. Crowthers noticed that he was breathing heavily and awakened him. He said he would be alright in a few minutes but she was alarmed and went downstairs to summon a physician. When she returned to his bedside Mr. Crowthers was dead.

Born in Perry township, William Crowthers had spent his entire life in the New Guilford neighborhood and was one of its most prominent and influential citizens. Early in youth he united with the Wilson chapel M. E. church, at Cullison Ridge but later transferred his membership to the New Guilford M. E. church, of which he was a member at the time of his death.

He leaves a wife and two children, Abraham Crowthers, of New Guilford and Mrs. Charles Mikesell, of West Carlisle and two brothers, Perry Crowthers, of Cullison Ridge and Henry Crowthers, of Danville. Another brother, Isaac Crowthers, was found dead in a field on his farm, near New Guilford, a year ago Thanksgiving day.

Peace of the Lane Family Is Disturbed

Wednesday Mrs. Dollie Lane appeared in police court and filed an affidavit charging her husband John Lane with attempting to provoke a breach of the peace by calling her a vile name. Later John Lane was called in and both gave their versions of the matter. Both appeared to be more or less nervous and related their family troubles which appeared to be the basis for the action. Mrs. Lane left before the hearing came to an end and did not press the matter. The mayor said Wednesday evening that he did not think anything more would come of the matter.

Cly Must Face The Charges

A motion to quash three indictments against Peter Cly was overruled by Judge Glass in common pleas court yesterday. Two of the indictments charge the defendant with having sold liquor without a license and the third charges him with conducting a place where intoxicating liquors are sold in violation of the law. The indictments followed the death of Albert Krider, a thirteen year old youth of the Brink Haven vicinity, which is alleged to have been caused by the drinking of home made wine purchased from Cly.

Baptists Hold First Service In New Church

Members of the First Baptist church are rejoicing over the fact that their new church edifice on Chestnut street is nearing completion and the midweek prayer service Wednesday night, which was the first service held in the church, took the form of a praise service. Testimonials of appreciation for the pastor, Rev. F. A. Twining, and others whose indefatigable efforts have made the new building possible, were features of the service. The service was held in the basement of the church where all the church services will be held from now until the upper part is finished. It is believed that this can be accomplished within a few weeks but it is not planned to hold the formal dedication of the church until Easter Sunday.

Negroes Are Driven From Their Homes

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 1.—Frightened at the continued burning and pillaging of the homes on Brushy Island and the killing of six negroes there since John Lee, a white planter, was killed a week ago, the negroes living on the island have started a general exodus. Every outgoing train carries a score or more of them.

Three more houses on the island were burned last night and one negro's home was riddled with bullets. It was reported today that one more negro had been killed.

New Features

Co-operation of teachers and officers for a better school during the new year was the keynote of his talk which proposed several new features which will be tried out by the new administration. Promptness on the part of the teachers and co-operation, he declared, were the two factors which would make the year a success.

One of the new features which will be inaugurated on the first Sunday in the new year will be "Father's Day." On the Sunday previous all the little ones and the older students as well will be given invitations to take home to "father" requesting him to come to Sunday school on the first Sunday of the new year with his child. Mother's Day has been a permanent feature in many of the cities' churches but it remained for a local church to honor dear old "dad."

It was also decided at the meeting that the church and Sunday school would follow the annual custom of presenting the opportunity to each of its members to make their "White Gift" at the Yuletime. Annually the members are given small white envelopes in which they place their contributions to any benevolence they may desire. The custom will be observed this year.

Local Man Announces His Candidacy For Delegate To Republican Convention

C. B. McCoy, Manufacturer, Would Represent Seventeenth Congressional District --Report Says Candidacy Meets With Burton's Approval--Takes Active Part.

It became definitely known yesterday that C. B. McCoy, president of the Coshocton Glove Company, will be a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention in 1916, to represent the Seventeenth congressional district which is composed of Coshocton, Licking, Delaware, Knox, Richland and Ashland counties.

It is understood that the election of Mr. McCoy as a delegate is favored by the leading Republicans of several counties of the district and, while Mr. McCoy does not say so himself, it is a pretty safe guess that his candidacy has already received the stamp of approval of Senator Theodore E. Burton.

When interviewed last night, Mr. McCoy frankly stated his position.

A Burton Man.

Mr. McCoy was asked to verify the rumor to the effect that he will be a candidate for delegate to the convention. "Yes," he replied, "I have consented to the use of my name in that connection and having given that approval it means that I am now a candidate in every sense of the term."

"Who is your choice for the presidential nomination?" asked the reporter. "I am unequivocally in favor of the nomination of Senator Theodore E. Burton," came the quick and emphatic reply. "Senator Burton is one of the greatest statesmen of his time and is so recognized throughout the nation. In my travels both east and west, where business has taken me, I have heard many business men and others express their preference for the Ohio man. It has afforded me great pleasure to answer their inquiries by telling them that the Republican party of Ohio is as a unit for Burton and that he will have a solid delegation from this state in the national convention."

Announcement Later.

"Has your candidacy for national delegate received the approval of Senator Burton?"

"That is a perfectly fair question," answered Mr. McCoy, "but it is one that I should prefer not to answer myself for the present at least. A matter of that kind can be stated with more propriety by Senator Burton and in due course of time his views or wishes will be made known to the public in some way that will be unmistakable."

According to information which bears the earmarks of authenticity, Mr. McCoy will take an unusually active part in Senator Burton's campaign. It is understood that he has consented to do some personal scout work in various parts of the country during his business travels and will otherwise assist in the campaign.

The part Mr. McCoy will take in the campaign will make him a figure of considerable importance in national politics. He is at present a member of the state executive committee and has been a member of the state central committee. He has also taken part in previous national conventions having represented this congressional district.

Sheriff Is Defendant In Suit Brought for Damages

Victoria Patterson Wednesday through her attorney, R. B. McDermott filed suit in common pleas court to collect from Sheriff George Pharion or his bondsmen $58 which she declares was lost to her in rental of the building formerly occupied by the Ditto and Moore saloon as the result of Pharion's acts.

On November 6th, a year ago, Sheriff Pharion in executing a judgment against the tenants of the property, closed the building and sold certain of the fixtures to satisfy a claim. During the period the building was held by Pharion, from November 6 to December 8, 1914, the plaintiff claims that she lost the rental of the building amounting to $58. She asks for judgment to recover this sum.

Farmers Are Called "Boobs" For Their Business Methods

Chicago, Dec. 1.—An indictment was returned today by the third national conference on marketing and farm credits, against the American farmer. The indictment, to be exact, charges the farmer with being a "boob," and a "[illegible] boob" at that.

The Farmers' Part.

Noah L. McVey, [illegible] of the [illegible] conference, pointed out in the opening speech that the American farmers create about $9,000,000,000 of wealth each year. They do the work, carry the investment and the risk, and pay no organized attention to the great gap between their fields and the consumer's table. In that gap the great profits are lost and the cream is skimmed off by the army of middlemen. The result, McVey said, that "despite this vast showing of production and the fact that more than a third of the population is at work at it, agriculture, taken as a whole, has not prospered."

"The commercial world is [illegible] the progress [illegible]," said McVey, "the establishment of necessary organizations and [illegible]. But the farmer goes on playing the game alone. He is fighting a losing battle [illegible] himself against his own ignorance and his [illegible] commercial world. ...Ford is now manufacturing the identical power today at 31 cents per unit, and the faster the plant capacity is increased the lower the cost will be.

Secretary Daniels has stated officially in his annual reports that the navy department can manufacture every single item from nails to superdreadnaughts cheaper than the same articles can be purchased from private manufacturers.

This is true in spite of the fact that government employes are generally better treated, have shorter hours of labor, more holidays and better pay than are the rule in private plants. These government annual costs also include 15 per cent for overhead charges, depreciation of plant and similar items.

All these facts are going to be pointed out with great emphasis on the floor of congress.

State To Combine Meetings

Combining the annual meetings of the Ohio State dairymen's association, the State Farmers' Institute, the Ohio State Corn Show and the Ohio Vegetable Growers' association, the 4th annual Farmers' week to be held at Columbus, January 31 to February 4, promises to be one of the greatest agricultural meetings ever held in Ohio. Sixty lectures by the leading farm authorities of the corn-belt will form the three-session, five-day course which will be offered free to the farmers of Ohio.

Practically every building on the campus of the University will be utilized for the event. Last year two sessions were given at the same time but provide for the large attendance expected three lectures or demonstrations on different phases of farming will be scheduled simultaneously.

With a free trip already granted to the three boys in the University from each of forty-two counties in which junior stock judging contests were held this fall, 126 youthful aspirants will clamor for the honor of being the best judge at the first state boys' contest to be held at this time. They will be given instruction in judging and all will compete in the contest.

Showing 800 slides selected from 2000 pictures taken on his trip around the globe, Professor Alfred Vivian of the University will deliver a series of dairy lectures at 4 p. m. on "Around the World in Five Days." The slides will show agricultural conditions from a farmer's viewpoint in traveling over 42,000 miles in 21 countries.

Denver Is Defendant

Cincinnati, Nov. 30—Suit for an accounting of the $500,000 estate of Mrs. Louise C. Denver, wife of the late James W. Denver of Wilmington, O., was filed in the United States district court here today by Mrs. Mary Louis Denver Lindley of New York City.

The suit is directed against Mrs. Lindley's brother, Matthew R. Denver, former Ohio congressman, both as an individual and as administrator of the estate, and against a sister, Mrs. Katherine Denver William.

Mrs. Lindley charges that after the death of Mrs. Denver, her brother Matthew requested her to sign over her interest to him for $32,000, claiming that it amounted to only about $31,000. She also charges that Matthew Denver filed an inventory which omitted valuable items of Mrs. Denver's estate.

Mrs. Lindley asks that all the papers which she claims she was wrongfully induced to sign be declared void and that a receiver take charge of the property.

MOTHER IS GLAD DEFECTIVE DIED

Death Takes a Burden From Parents and Society.

PHYSICIAN REFUSED TO ACT

Could Probably Have Prolonged Life by an Operation—Praise and Condemnation Heard on All Sides as Jury, Consisting of American Public, Decides if He Was Right.

"I want my baby. I want him so. But I'm glad he's gone!"

When Dr. H. J. Haiselden of the German American hospital of Chicago heard Mrs. Anna Bollinger utter these words from her bed he felt vindicated. His conscience was clear, and he was glad that he had refused to operate and save the life of a tiny infant that was destined to grow up a cripple, an idiot and a burden to his parents and to society.

His action had aroused the entire country to a shout of protest on one hand and enthusiastic commendation on the other. Noted men and women in all walks of life alternately lauded and condemned the physician for refusing to attempt to save the life of the little defective.

The doctor had come to tell Mrs. Bollinger that the child had died. Although she had consented to "let nature act," the news had been kept from her because of her feverish condition.

Mrs. Bollinger's eyes filled with tears when she learned that the end had come. She turned her face toward the wall of her room and wept. Dr. Haiselden felt her pulse and smoothed her hair.

"You could have saved his life?" whispered the mother.

The doctor nodded.

"I've been thinking of it all night. I can't sleep," whispered the mother of the sacrificed defective. Again the doctor nodded. Downstairs the telephone kept up its incessant ringing. Men and women were clamoring to speak to the physician.

"I've been picturing him," went on the mother, "and wanting him. When did he die?"

The doctor told her. The mother buried her face in the pillow, and from its depths she whispered:

"I'm glad!"

A look of relief passed over the doctor's face, and he left the room.

The inquest proved a trial of Dr. Haiselden by his professional peers. Six noted physicians took their places in the jury box and listened to the testimony of Dr. Rheinhardt, the coroner's physician. At the jurymen's request an autopsy was performed under their eyes. Dr. Rheinhardt said after he had given his testimony that he had made discoveries.

Case Worse Than Supposed.

"We found the child was even more defective than Dr. Haiselden had said," announced Dr. Rheinhardt.

When the result of the autopsy performed by Dr. Rheinhardt was read to the jury it revealed that the Bollinger infant had come into the world suffering the following malformations and defects:

There was a paralysis on the left side from head to foot. On the right side the outer ear was formed, but it lacked the drum, and the child would have been deaf. There was no ear on the left side. On the right side there was no neck, the skin growing from the cheek to the shoulder blade. There were curvature of the spine and hemorrhage of the spinal canal.

Of the last trouble—hemorrhage of the spine—a score of physicians said it would have caused complete paralysis and would have resulted in death, even had there been no other trouble.

The jury consisting of the American public is hopelessly divided. The case will always be among those on which no just verdict can be rendered. Each person's individual conscience must judge. But few persons have placed themselves in the baby's place.

"If you were a defective child five days old destined to be an imbecile would you rather die or live?" asked a noted physician. And this question settled in the minds of many the perplexing question. The answer was usually, "I would rather die."

But Jane Addams, head of Hull House, one of the most gifted women in the world, differs with the physician. She has pointed out a long list of famous persons who were handicapped with infirmities at birth.

LIVING HIGH IN THE AIR.

Quito, In Ecuador, With Winter Above and Summer Below It.

Quito, in Ecuador, lifted nearly two miles into thin air, has always boasted its "perpetual spring," but in south it would be just as fair to call its climate "perpetual autumn." With a temperature that hovers about 60 degrees F. in the shade, the Quitonian passes his life in early April or late October.

He escapes the winter, to be sure, but misses the vernal miracle that redeems the higher latitude. But, whether he feels chilled or baked, he can always turn his eye toward comfort.

Out across the plain, about three miles to the north, the road drops 3,000 feet through a stupendous ravine, and from the high places of Quito one can peer down into a semitropical valley, its coffee trees and cane fields dancing in the heat waves.

On the other hand, when the overhead sun scorches there are a score of snow peaks to refresh the eye. As you study through a fieldglass the huge drifts and wild snowstorms on Antisana, which looks out over the rank forests of the "Oriente," you realize that it is easier and safer to get from where you are to Greenland than to reach those polar solitudes only a dozen miles away.

Groves of eucalyptus in the environs of Quito agreeably relieve the majesty of the scenery, and it is said that this province has a third of a million of these trees. President Moreno introduced them from Australia half a century ago, and it was a saying among even the enemies of Moreno that on the day of judgment he will escape the penalty of his misdeeds with the plea, "I gave Ecuador the eucalyptus."—New York Telegram.

FIRST BASEBALL GLOVE.

Story of the Little Third Baseman With the Iron Fist.

About 1867-68 a baseball team came to Rockford, Ill., to play our nine, says a writer in All Outdoors. They called themselves the "Unconquered Clippers of Illinois" and plastered our town with big posters. We made up our minds to give them a drubbing, and at the end of the game the score was Rockford, 76; Clippers, 0.

There was a little chap playing third base who grabbed everything that came near him, and held it too. I noticed that he wore a kind of glove. When the game was over I went to him and asked what it was that he wore on his hand. He told me that he was a machinist and had got his hand badly hurt the week before, and he showed me the wound in his palm. He said the boys did not want him to play in that game, but he got a piece of thin sheet steel and made it slightly concave, but so that it did not quite touch the sore place. He then made a short glove to cover all the hand excepting the first joints of the fingers and doubled the leather in the palm so that he could slip the plate between.

I asked him if it hurt, and he said it did not and that he could take a bat one and hold it better with the glove than without it. That is the whole story. I don't think that Spalding ever talked to the little chap with the iron fist, as the boys dubbed the third baseman, but everybody in Rockford knew about the mitt, and he may have got the idea from him. Anyway, that was the first glove that any ball player ever wore.

Thompson Is Opposed to Preparedness

Columbus, O., Dec. 1.—Representing the National Association of State Universities, President W. O. Thompson of Ohio State university, will go to Washington Thursday to confer with Secretary of War Garrison, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Commissioner of Education Claxton to prepare bills on military matters for state universities and other educational institutions. It is planned to extend military training in universities to a four-year elective basis in order to prepare efficient officers for the army.

Dr. Thompson came out [illegible] against preparedness in a statement Wednesday, when he said, "I do not believe in preparedness [illegible]. We stand [illegible] invasion by a foreign country while the present war lasts and when it is over I believe the danger will be [illegible] less."

However, Dr. Thompson believes the preparation of officers for military leadership to be a [illegible] thing as it is trained officers who determine the strength of the army.

VICTIMS OF NIAGARA.

Water Birds Go to Sleep and Are Swept Over the Falls.

Swimming too near the brink of the falls, hundreds of water birds, even swans, ducks and geese, go over Niagara falls to their death each year in the migratory season. So many birds pay the penalty for their daring each year that bird lovers on both the American and Canadian sides of the falls are considering steps to lessen the annual toll of the feathered tribe.

Since a majority of the victims are claimed in the night, the theory is advanced that the birds go to sleep while swimming and don't wake up until the rapids have carried them over the danger line. Usually they are killed outright in the fall. Sometimes they are only stunned and are picked out of the river below the falls and used for food.

In 1912, so Ernest Harold Baynes, the naturalist, relates, the whistling swans went over Horseshoe falls. Boys and men waited the birds out, knocked them on the head and sold them.

"James Savage of Buffalo," Mr. Baynes says, "with some friends once saved a flock of swans by chasing them in a power boat and making them fly away just before nightfall. It was a decent thing for these men to do, for if by any chance the engine had become disabled nothing could have prevented their going over the falls."—Philadelphia North American.

ABOUT 300,000 BABIES DIE BEFORE ONE YEAR

The Census Bureau estimates that 300,000 babies died in this country last year before the age of one year, and it is stated that one-half of these deaths were needless if all mothers were strong and infants were breast-fed.

Expectant mothers should strive to increase their strength with the strength-building fats in Scott's Emulsion which improves the blood, suppresses nervousness, aids the quality of milk, and feeds the very life cells.

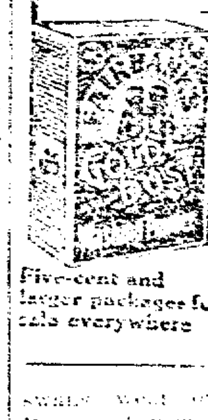

Physicians prescribe Scott's Emulsion; it is doubly important during nursing. No alcohol. Everydruggist has it. Insist on Scott's—the white-food medicine. No advanced prices.

Nature and Art.

It is a great mortification to the vanity of man that his utmost art and industry can never equal the meanest of nature's productions either for beauty or value. Art is only the underworkman and is employed to give a few strokes of embellishment to those pieces which come from the hand of the master.—Hume.

The Secret of Harmony.

Young Mrs. Meek, whose experience of married life had been brief and happy, had just engaged two servants, a man and his wife.

"I am so glad you are married," she said to the man with whom she had made terms. "I hope you are very, very happy and that you and your wife never have any difference of opinion."

"Faith, ma'am, Oi couldn't say that," replied the new servant, "for we have a good many, but Oi don't let my wife know of thim, and so we do be gettin' along well."

HE KNEW TOO MUCH

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Everybody knows that the besetting sin among officials in Russia is graft. From the highest to the lowest they expect the palm to be crossed before they will do their duty, and a favor costs a great deal more.

There was once a general in Russia who was intimately connected with the imperial family. His name was Alexander Rizenoff. He was a skillful commander, and to him Russia was indebted for its salvation in a certain war. During this time he was much troubled by the rascality of officials in the supply department. He could get neither food nor ammunition for his troops because those whose duty it was to provide and forward them were waiting for those who sold to pay their commission and those who forwarded to receive the same pecuniary attention.

General Rizenoff was a very energetic man, and after his victory determined to bring some of these officials to justice. He employed secret agents to trace the causes of the delays that had inconvenienced him, but when they made their report he found himself estopped from pursuing the matter further. His investigators had traced the graft to certain grand dukes who had been getting rich during the war, and he believed that if he brought the matter up officially he would probably be sent to Siberia on some trumped up charge.

The guilty persons knew that the general was aware of their delinquencies, but were not aware what he intended doing with the evidence in his possession. They would have united in a plan to get rid of him, but his victories over the enemies of Russia had made him so popular that they did not dare to accuse him of any crime.

Meanwhile the general was lionized, wined and dined by the lofty and cheered wherever he appeared in public by the lowly. The loudest in his praise were those who had come near thwarting his military successes and were now hunting for a plan by which they could seal his lips in case he should think of exposing their peculations.

The general was a very good man. Far from enjoying ... he preferred his rooms in the quarters assigned him as a commander. He was essentially a man's man and had very little to do with women.

One evening at a ball at the winter palace one of the grand dukes told the general there was a lady present who desired that he would be presented to her. Rizenoff demurred, but the would be introducer, who was an uncle to the czar, would not be refused, and he was altogether too powerful to offend. The general was led up to a Spanish lady, who looked up at him with a pair of Madonnalike eyes, which seemed to say, "I am the slave of the warrior who has led his troops to victory." Women had made open advances to him. They attacked him through his vanity and through his senses. They had all failed. There was something inexpressibly timid in this girl's admiration, something that seemed to say: "I can never aspire to be noticed by you. I only wish to bask for a moment in the light of your glory."

Rizenoff was touched by this worship of a beautiful girl almost young enough to be his daughter. He returned it by asking her to dance. She looked up at him with a frightened glance, as much as to say: "This honor cannot be for such as I. I should not know how to behave in so exalted a position as that of your partner."

Nevertheless she danced and with such grace that others ceased to dance to watch her. Every movement was perfect, yet it seemed natural, not cultivated perfection. When the dance was ended the general led his partner to one of the little nooks intended for tete-a-tetes and there spent the rest of the evening with her.

From that time General Rizenoff paid his court to this girl and to her only. Inez Cardena was her name. Who she was, how she came to be invited to a state ball, no one knew. She did not claim to be noble. She was too well bred to be of the peasant class. She was invited to all functions where General Rizenoff was invited, for his attentions to her were well known. On such occasions where she danced she was the center of all eyes, and it seemed to be a rule that she never danced with any one except Rizenoff. Whether no one cared to ask her to dance or whether she considered it such an honor to be chosen by him that it would be ... to dance with any one else did ... [illegible]

One night Rizenoff departed from the palace ... grand ... ball was in progress in a carriage in company with Inez Cardena ... afterward the carriage drove ... general's quarters. 105 FRENCH MARINES ELUDE FOES 37 DAYS.

Break Through German Line In 315 Mile Retreat From Belgrade.

A story of an extraordinary march of a small body of French marines who have arrived at Monastir from Belgrade after covering more than 300 miles afoot and passing through the Austrian lines, is told by the correspondent of the London Daily Mail at Saloniki. He says:

"One hundred and five French sailors from Craiova, near Belgrade, have arrived at Monastir after covering more than 315 miles afoot and passing through the enemy's lines. They went by a roundabout way, via Prizrend and Dibra, and, overcome with the extraordinary difficulties, five were left on the way, two of them dead and three wounded.

"Commander Picot and seven other officers accompanied the detachment, which did excellent work at Belgrade. They destroyed a bridge and seriously damaged two of the six Austrian monitors at Semlin. Their battery of three guns was discovered by enemy aeroplanes and for three days, supported by English and Russian batteries, was under a terrible fire.

"Two large shells dropped almost every second for eighteen hours with awful precision. The battery was so well protected by shields and earthworks that it was able to reply, shell for shell, until its supply of ammunition was exhausted and two of its guns were destroyed. By a miracle the detachment had only two men seriously wounded and only one killed.

"When the ammunition ran out they destroyed the guns and on the evening of Oct. 8 began their retreat. Using their rifles and bayonets, they rushed the German line and got through. Much suffering was endured during the retreat, which occupied thirty-seven days in a mountainous country, the men carrying only their rifles and cartridges."

The correspondent adds that a British detachment was expected at Monastir several days ago, but no definite news of it can be obtained.

It Takes Eight Months

If a Crown Piano were merely a piece of cabinet work it could be made in a few weeks. It takes eight months to build a Crown Piano because it is a musical instrument, adjusted and re-adjusted until it has the purity, volume and sweetness of tone that every Crown must have before the name goes on.

are in the hands of experts for months after the strings, hammers and keys are in place. The regulating is done by men unusually skilled, so that the quality and equality of tone are perfect.

Every Crown Piano is tuned at least seven times before leaving the factory. The actions are regulated and re-regulated by men who specialize in this accurate work.

All this work does not show on the surface, but means musical value—tone of lasting sweetness—action responsive to every touch—durability.

The Crown welcomes comparisons and musical tests.

Send for our booklets which explain piano value, and what to look for in the selection of an instrument for your home. These booklets contain real piano information, and guided by them you are sure to select a good piano. They are FREE for the asking. Mail the coupon TODAY.

History.

History is a voice forever sounding across the centuries the laws of right and wrong. Opinions alter, manners change, creeds rise and fall, but the moral law is written on the tablets of eternity. For every false word or unrighteous deed, for cruelty and oppression, for lust or vanity, the price has to be paid at last, not always by the chief offenders, but paid by some one. Justice and truth alone endure and live. Injustice and falsehood may be long lived, but doomsday comes at last to them in French revolutions and other terrible ways.—James Anthony Froude.

DON'T BE PENNY WISE

Don't think you are economizing by denying yourself a nice tailored suit and wearing a ready-made suit. It doesn't pay. One of my suits, while it costs a little more at first than the ready-made, is so substantially tailored of the best materials that it will wear, hold its shape and look well after the ready-made is discarded. It more than makes up in style, wear and comfort for the small increase in cost over the ready-made. Come and see my new woolens, get prices and talk it over.

Beautiful Hair, Thick, Wavy, Free From Dandruff

Immediate—Yes! Certain—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after an application of Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, charming, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.
